

Autism spectrum disorders in adult life. State of the art, diagnostics and treatment

The course is designed to provide an in-depth insight into best practice and latest research of autism spectrum disorder. Since 1990 there is a rise of diagnosis of autism spectrum disorder, this underscores the importance of understanding for the clinician.

The course goals are

1. Learn the diagnostic process and the criteria for autism spectrum disorder
2. Describe the diversity of the diagnosis
3. Identify common medical comorbidities
4. Learn how to provide help and support